Our Cable Dispatches. LONDON, April 22.—(CORRECTION).—In the cable dispatch of the 20th, the receipts of Cotton were stated to be 284,000 bales ahead of the same time stated to be 284,000 bates anead of the same time last year. This was an error, and should have been 284,000 bales less than last year.

Washington News. Washington, April 22.—The Quartermaster General has issued a circular, showing by the terms of the purchase that the sums due certain railroads for carrying the mails, etc., must be withheld until the material purchased from Government is paid for, and making rules by which connecting roads, not indebted, may be promptly paid. Quartermas-ters are directed to issue separate bills of lading to indebted roads when practicable. The indebted roads are required to present accounts to Colonel T. J. Crelly, A. Q. M., at Washington, for the At-lantic roads; General C. G. Sautelle, at New Orleans, for the Gulf State roals, and Colonel S. R. Hammil, at Louisville, for all other roads. The ist of indebted railroad companies numbers 41.

The Supreme Court affirmed the decision of the Louisiana District Court, in the case of the block-ade steamer Wm. B. Bagaly. This is a case where one loyal and three pardoned owners claimed the proceeds of the vessel and cargo. The decision is dverse to their claim.

The Supreme Court to-day decided that the United States District Courts alone had jurisdiction over the internal waters of the United States, including rivers and lakes. Heretofore State Courts have claimed jurisdiction over the internal waters.

The State Departmen thinks that it would be discourteous to Russia to organize such an expedition until the cession is The Surgeon-General has issued a circular con-sining regulations against cholera, in view of its probable prevalence this summer. Senator Wilson at Richmond.

RICHMOND, April 22.—Senator Wilson addressed a crowd of about 6,000 persons from the Capitol steps this afternoon. Nearly all those present were colored, though all classes of whites were represented. He was introduced by Governor Peirpoint. After alluding to the fact that he visited Richmond upon the invitation of several members of both Houses of the Legislature, he proceeded to give a history of the Reconstruction Bill. He then recited events since the close of the war to show that Mr. Johnson's policy, adopted against the will of the nation, had caused more unhappiness than the work of any one man in America. It again excited men who had been more than willing to accept the terms of Congress. The Recon-struction Bill was not passed to humiliate the South, but to meet the needs of the whole country. The question now before the Southern States is thether they will elect men to State offices and to favor an honest acceptance of the policy of the nation, or men who still mourn over the lost cause, and who hope something may turn up to overthrow that policy and restore old ideas nd old measures.

Patriotism demands that the latter class shall never more be permitted to participate in the management of the State or general government. The position of Andrew Johnson had made a Re-publican triumph at the next Presidential election certain.

The speaker wanted all classes of men, the colored, the white, the loyal, and those who had abandoned the wicked heresy of Secession, to stand together on the national platform of the Republican party. As for the colored vote of Virginia, he had no fear of its being controlled by the Secessionists. He appealed to the old Whigs of Virginia—the followers of Henry Clay, who declared that slavery was a grievious wrong, that no contingency could make right—to seize the occasion and unite their fortunes with the Republican party. Now was their day and hour to carry Virginia by an overwhelming majority. To that class who are disfranchised for participation in the re-bellion, he would say that by speaking and working for the national policy they would show their countrymen that the disability now imposed upon them ought to be removed, and a country that had proved its generosity would not forget them.
Governor Peirpoint, after the conclusion of Senator Wilson's speech, made a brief address, advising the colored people to work and make the old Messrs. Hunnicutt and Tucker followed in short addresses. The former amounced his intention of appealing immediately to the military tribunals against the attacks of the Richmond press.

Consolidation of Virginia Kailroads. RICHMOND, April 22.—The Legislature of Virrinia has passed a law levying a tax of 30 cents on the 100 dollars, to pay the four per cent. annual interest on the public debt as heretofore authorized. Certificates will be issued for the deferred two per cent. A law has also been passed consolidating the A law has also been passed consolidating the four leading railroads connecting the waters of the Ohic and Mississippi with the Atlantic at Nortolk, also consolidating the Virginia Central with the Covington and Ohio Railroads. The law provides that the interest the State owns in the roads be consolidated, smounting to over $14,000,000, is to be sold and payment made on or before May 1st, 1868, on the bonds of the State at par. There are also pending before the Legislature similar Bills for the sale of the entire interest the State owns in various railroads amounting in all to $21,700,000.

THE GERMAN SUNDAY SCHOOL PIC-NIC. According to previous announcement, a large number of children (about 400) left by the Northeastern train at seven o'clock yesterday morning, under the direction of Mr. HOFFMAN, the superinendant of the school. The weather was delightful, all any one could wish for on Easter Monday norning. The cool air of Spring was bracing, and edolent of floral perfume; the sun shone bright, and all nature was dressed in gay attire. As the train passed the dreary marsh, the children mused themselves, looked at the placid river and the little boats that studded its surface here and there. Soon the cars emerged from their marine substratum, and rolled through dense groves and gardens rich with the treasures of Spring. The young folks were delighted to get "into the country;" and found new pleasures in every cart, DE. W. T. WRAGG. wagon, cow or wayfaring darkie that crossed their field of vision.

At last the Schutzenplatz, the point of destinaion was reached, and certainly no more suitable site could have been selected within, or in the vicinity of the corporate limits of the city. The tall old trees afford a grateful shade, and the shrubbery grounds and gardens give it a "park" like air. The proximity of the Ashley river afforded a fine view and amusement to those who loved aquatic sports. The pastor of the church, Rev. L. Muller, was present, and appeared to enjoy himself not a little, and we may say the same of all who were there, both great and small, WM. CARRINGTON. number not falling far short of 1,000 when all are counted who had visited the grounds during the day. There was a large number of private vehicles of all kinds for those who preferred to come in their own independent conveyances.

The Committee on Amusement, Messrs. J. F. KLENKE, J. H. OSTENDOBFF, and L. MULLER, had nade their preparations in a thorough manner. The Committee on Refreshments were Messrs. A. W. RIECKE, W. J. H. OSTENDORFF, and J. J.

BESCH. These gentlemen all merit the highest credit for their thoughtfulness, and the graceful ease with which they beguiled their guests into a belief that they were indeed enjoying the full uxury of rural bliss. MULKER's string band did service for the benefit of those who had a light fantastic toe, itching to be at saltatory exercises.

There were amusements for the adults as well as

In due course of time the table was spread, and bent beneath the weight of all those substantials and delicacies so bountifully provided by the Next -came the games-not the Isthmian, Nemean or Olympic. Those were all very well in their time, but would scarcely answer for our day and generation. The Greek language and Greek games are not as yet acclimated in the Schuzenplatz. The youth first entered the lists in a trial at shooting with the crossbow. Prizes were awarded to Masters P. Jatho, R. Runken, W. Fehrenbach, H. SCHULTZ, Mr. SCHRODER, and C. SAHLMAN, who exhibited the greatest accuracy in aim, and steadiness of nerve for the execution of this feat of skill.

They all shot at an eagle. "Bag-running," a purely German rural sport, was the great feature, however, with the young folks; and being a novelty to most persons present, it created no little fun. The applicants who desired to enter the lists were placed in bags, their arms tied inside, so that when any of them fell, which was frequently the case, they had to be picked up and put on their feet again by their comrades. The distance travelled was about 30 yards, which ria hlarosa was successfully accomplised seven times, and the seven boys who arrived first at the goal were rewarded with prizes. Masters MALSTEDT, BRAUER, LINDSTEDT, HASTEDT, OSTEN-DORFF and PAULS, and one other boy whose name we did not get, were the victors in this eccentric

There was playing at nine-pins for the old folks, foot-balls, swinging, &c., for the children, till the shades of evening began to make their appearance from over old St. Andrew's Parish on the opposite side of the Ashley. In the afternoon Mr. HOFFMAN addressed the school, and more especially those pupils who have just been confirmed, and now are about to leave the school. Their teacher addressed them in loving words and in an earnest and impressive manner, giving them wholesome counsel and advice, which it is to be hoped they will religiously follow.

Among the visitors in the afternoon we noticed Gen. JOHN A. WAGENER, F. MELCHERS, Esq., Capt. HOHNHOLTZ, of the Bremen bark Everhard Delius. Rev. E. J. MEYNARDIE, and L. CHAPIN, Esq. About dark the cars brought their precious freight back to the city, all in the best of spirits. This here have had in a long while—ein wahres Volks-fest! was one of the finest rural turn outs the Germans

Mississippi.

The Jackson (Miss.) Clarion, April 10-BARKS-DALE's paper—publishes a letter from ex-Governor JOHN J. MORAE, of that State, upon the necessities of the political condition South, and prononnces it a calm and statesmanlike review of the political situation. The Clarion continues: If the armies of the Union had been defeated, the Confederate States would have been masters of their own destiny, and their government would have been independent of foreign control. But, unfortunately, the war resulted otherwise. Our armies surrendered unconditionally to surerior forces; the Confederacy was swept out of exis-tence; and the United States Government acquired the power to rule over us. We can more resist this decree of the God of Battles than stop the wheels of time. In the exercise of its acquired power that government has prescribed the onditions on which the Confederate States may esume their places in the Union; but has left to them the choice of reorganizing on these condi-tions or remaining under martial law, with a clearly defined prospect of still more rigorous terms at a future day. Ex-Governor McRae argues that in yielding to the inevitable necessities of our condition, it is the part of true wisdom for our people to adopt the former alternative and to enter rigorously upon the business of reconstruction, which must be ended before they can escape from this reign of chaos and anarchy—this night of gloom and uncertainty.

EX-GOVERNOR M'RAE'S LETTER.

In the course of his letter, which is addressed to Rev. Bishop Payne, and dated Buscatunna, Miss., March 30, Ex-Governor McRae says: I belong to the excluded class in the organization of the State government, because the people of Mississippi have heretofore reposed their confidence in me in too high a degree as one of their public men. I would sacrifice anything for them, and now I say to them, through you, I willingly sacrifice for their sake all right to office, position and suffrage, under these reconstruction measures, of which I am by them debarred, and advise those who are entitled under these acts, to register and vote.

So far as the freedmen are concerned. I would not advise them to register or to vote unless it shall appear that bad men are likely to improperly influence then and lead them astray. event they ought to register, and our people should advise with them and enable them to vote intelli-gently. As we are their friends so are they ours, and will prove themselves so when an issue shall be made to test that question. I know it was a conviction on the part of the ultra abelitionists (n.w radicals) before secession, if it resulted in war, that when the war was proclaimed to be for the emancipation of the slaves there would be general insurrection—it was a serious apprehension on the part of our own people. But the negroes were never more faithful than during the war. They are now free-their condition is changed, and, without our care, the fanaticism which has liberated will exterminate them. We should cherish for them nothing but sympathy; they will be our friends, and we will be their protectors until their race is run.

What our people have now to do is to conform to the legislation of Congress under the Sherman Military Bill and the Supplementary Act to carry it out. By this means our State may be restored to the Union, and our condition perhaps be bet-

THE GALAXY for May 1 has arrived, filled as usual with an excellent Table of Contents 'Article 1, a continuation of "Waiting for the Verdict," we have not read, but hear it highly spoken of by our novel reading friends. 2. Opium and its Victims, by ALONZO CALKINS, will be read with painful interest. It would seem that although Doctors usually differ, on this matter they all think very much alike. MADDEN, at the great Bazaar in Constantinople, met but one visitor who had passed thirty, a moderate smoker for twenty-five years. Dr. Oxley, while in Singapore, met in but one instance a man who had reached eighty. Dr. PARKER had rarely known a smoker who had exceeded fifty years; and both he and Dr. Maccowan testify that the effects attributed to an addiction of opium are not, in the view of the observing and knowing, overwrought or overrated. Dr. LTTTLE agrees that here and there occur cases of utter decay of mind, with the wasting of the body; etc., etc. 3. Another view of Madame RECAMIER. 4. Parisian English. This is a subject not altogether original, it is true, but always amusing. Speaking of the restaurants in Paris, in many of which the bills of fare are translated by "Experts," for the benefit of the English, sojourning in that gay capital, the bills of the following highly literal translation: "res de beau a la financiere" is rendered "the smile of the calf to the female capitalist." So again Gants de peau de Nice is translated "Nice Skin's gloves." But we have seen as bad in Charleston. There is now to be seen in our streets a finely painted sign: "Soder Water;" and for the matter of that the French in our newspapers, magazines, and novels, is as badly murdered every day as English in Paris. 5. OF A YOUNG LADY RETURNING TO HER country home, after a sojourn of a few months in the TAVERN-KEEPERS'NOTICE.

of a coarse, rustic, flushed face, she had a soft ruby complexion of almost marble smoothness, and instead of twe nty-three she really appeared but eighteen. Upon inquiry as to the cause of so great a change, she plainly toy'd them that she used the CIRCAS-IAN BALM, and considered it an invaluable acquisition to any lady's toilet.

By it is use any Lady or Gentlemen can improve their personal state of the complying with the law, after Monday, 5th inst. city, was hardly recognized by her friends. In place of By it 8 use any Lady or Gentlemen can improve their personal appearance an hundred fold. It is simple in its combination, as Nature herself is simple yet unsurpassed in its efficacy in drawing impurities from, also healing, cleansing and beautifying the skin and complexion. By its direct action on the cuticle it draws from it all its inpurities, kindly healing the same, and leaving the surface as Nature intended it should be-clear, soft, smooth and beautiful. Died, on 18th April, 1867, WILLIAM L. MACBETH, aged 31 years and 14 days. "The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away; blessed be the name of the Lord."

IN MEMORIAM.

DIED, in Charleston, S. C., on the 3d of February, 1867, after a short, painful illness, Mr. JOHN A. ARM-STRONG, a native of the city of Londonderry, Ireland, but for over twenty years an enterprising merchant of Charleston, S. C., where, by his high sense of honor, and strict integrity of character, he won the confidence and respect of his fellow men.

Of mild and gentle manner, quiet retiring disposition, his most amiable qualities shone brightest around the domestic hearth-stone, where his genial temper, kindness, and hospitality ever drew around him many devoted friends.

To his adopted country, he was warmly attached, having all her interests at heart. Sharing with her sons the dangers and privations of the camp, and ready at any moment to lay down his life in her cause.

Generous to a fault, the poor ever found in him a ready sympathizing friend, and many were his acts of unostentiations charity. ready sympathizing friend, and many were his acts of unostentatious charity.

One of the most exemplary traits in his character, was his devot d love for an only sister; seldom have we seen this affection beautifully portrayed. Nothing could exceed his devotion, and no earthly sacrifice would have been too great for him to make, could it have added to her comfort. Vain indeed, are words of consolation to assuate grief such as hers. She must only look to that higher power, who doeth all things well, and chasteneth those womm he loveth. Sad indeed seems the dispensation of Providence in thus removing from their midst one in whom so many hopes and herris were centred, in the prime of his manhood, surrounded by everything to make life desirable, with bright bouyant hopes for the future. He was snatched away, leaving a disconsolate widow and child, a sorrow stricken sister, brothers, and a large circle of relatives and friends to mourn his loss. Yet they mourn not as those without hope, for he was endowed with all to se religious qualities which we hope will win for him a crown-of immortality.

A FRIEND.
